

JUVENILES MAY BE TURNED FREE

No Place to Teach Lads Sent to the Uintah Training School

HOME HAS BEEN SOLD

JUVENILE COURT HAS EXPERIENCED LOTS OF TROUBLE.

Owing to the fact that a part of the old Uintah training school for boys has been purchased by the Poplar Grove ward of the Mormon church and has been converted into a church, there is now no place to teach the eighteen boys who have been sent there by the juvenile court. Last winter classes were maintained in a part of the school, and no day was missed, so that the boys who were sent there did not get out of school work at least, but now there is no place to hold the classes.

The state street orphanage has practically been purchased by the county commissioners and the intention is to turn this into a training school and abandon the one in Poplar Grove. The state street orphanage would be better for this purpose for a good many reasons, and the commissioners have been seriously considering this proposition for some time.

Turn Boys Loose.

As there is no place to teach the boys, it is probable that they will be turned loose. They have been in the school for some time, and they have been attending before their pranks brought them before the juvenile court. They will be placed upon their honor to be good boys, and will be compelled to remain in the school the same as other children. This is the plan at present, and will probably be carried out unless some place is found for them. If the boys again become unruly and are brought before the juvenile court they will be returned to the Uintah home and taught separately.

There was no meeting of the juvenile court commission yesterday, owing to the fact that the President Taft reception committee was busy most of the afternoon in the office of Governor William Spry. The commission will probably meet today, however, when permanent quarters will be selected for the court. Yesterday the court vacated the rooms used for this work for the last three years, and have taken rooms offered them for a short time by the board of education on the third floor of the city and county building. They will remain there and hold court until an uptown office is selected for them.

Much Interference.

The juvenile court work has been interfered with to no small extent during the last year through different causes, but now it appears that within a short time the court will be able to go about its business again. First there was the work early in the year, with the legislature in the framing of new juvenile court laws. Then there came the uncertainty in the selection of a secretary to the commission. Later, the juvenile court officers were told they would have to vacate their quarters to give room to city officials. Then Judge E. G. Gowan was appointed to the superintendency of the Utah Industrial school at Ogden, taking the head room of the court. From the time of that appointment until a short time ago there was much uncertainty and a good deal of interruptions of a new judge owing to the selection of a new judge by the commissioner. But Alexander McMaster has been chosen, has entered upon his work with a vim, and now the court work is practically paralyzed through having to move to temporary quarters. But as soon as the uptown offices are selected, the officers will be able to start work again and they expect to have things running smoothly within a few days after they are in their new quarters.

Yesterday work was begun by Dr. M. R. Stewart, health commissioner, to move his office furniture from the board of health rooms to those vacated by the juvenile court. The board of health, plumbing inspector and food inspector will be in the juvenile court quarters. A. B. Hirth, building inspector, will be in the board of health rooms. It is said that the park keeper's office will also be moved to the old board of health rooms. All the changes will be made this week.

MOST RAIN IN THIRTY YEARS

Meteorological Summary for Month of August—Temperature Above Normal.

The meteorological summary for the month of August, compiled by local weather officials, shows seventeen storms amounting to 1.76 inches, which total has only been equaled once in the last thirty years, and which is more than double the average precipitation for August of the last thirty years.

The mean maximum temperature of the month was 87 degrees; the mean minimum, 64 degrees; the mean average 75.5, which is slightly above the average for thirty years.

Since Jan. 1 of the present year 2.83 inches precipitation above the normal has fallen. Up to Sept. 1 no frost had been recorded during the summer in Utah.

The prediction for today is for partly cloudy conditions, with possible rain. Unsettled pressure conditions still continue over the Rocky mountain and thunderstorms have occurred over a wide area during the last twenty-four hours.

CHARGES AGAINST STERRETT ALSO

Executive Committee of G. A. R. Will Publish Statement of His Work.

REFUTE HIS STATEMENTS

COLONEL'S ACCUSATIONS ARE BRANDED AS FALSEHOODS.

The executive committee of the recent G. A. R. encampment, at its meeting in the Commercial club at noon yesterday, unanimously decided to refute the charges made against the committee by Colonel F. M. Sterrett, executive director of the encampment, and to make a public statement giving the complete record of Colonel Sterrett's connection with the encampment.

A committee was appointed to investigate the charges made by Colonel Sterrett, and to formulate a detailed statement relative to the work of Colonel Sterrett in connection with that of the executive committee of the recent encampment. Judge E. F. Colborn was appointed chairman of the committee, and Fisher Harris, secretary. The other members of the committee are Frank B. Stephens, George A. Black and Colonel M. M. Kaighn.

Absolute Falsehoods.

The executive committee was unanimous in its denunciation of Colonel Sterrett. The members declared that all of his charges were absolute falsehoods, and that they must be refuted. Colonel Sterrett's own record, it was declared, was not the best, and that when it was made public the charges made by the executive director against the committee would fade to insignificance in comparison with the ones that would be made by the committee against him.

The feeling against Colonel Sterrett is one of unanimity, and is shared by all of the Grand Army men of Utah. The colonel accused the committee of extravagance, when, as a matter of fact, the only extravagance apparent was that in connection with the personal expenses of Colonel Sterrett and his relatives, which came out of the encampment fund.

Unauthorized expenditures incurred by Colonel Sterrett are being discovered daily through the appearance of delayed bills.

H. A. Joplin of the Utah Auditing & Accounting company, who kept and audited the accounts of the encampment, met with the committee yesterday and submitted a partial report of the auditing. He was unable to make a complete report at present, because there are still some bills which have not come in.

BUFFALO BULLS HAVE NO VANTY

Ambitious Photographer Fails in Mission on Antelope Island.

From the story told by a photographer who returned from Antelope island yesterday without getting the views he desired, buffalo bulls are as much averse to having their photographs taken as are some people prominent in the public eye. Now, it was an easy matter to take long-range photographs of the herd, but that is not what the artist wanted. Many such views had previously been taken by others.

Being more or less of the intrepid sort, one of the kind that would risk pressing the bull while an irate person was coming toward him with an umbrella, the artist approached quite close to the grazing herd. The buffaloes paid little attention to the man, but when he attempted to set up his machine, they were a different story. The big bulls looked askance at the black cloth covering and, thinking it some sort of evil that menaced the buffalo cows under their protection, charged in its direction with loud snorts of fury.

Then the photographer thought discretion the better part of valor and sought safety in flight. He finally had to content himself with views taken at long range, which were not so satisfactory as would have been those taken at close range.
